Academy of LDS Dentists
39th Annual Dental Conference
August 12-13, 2016
Brigham Young University • Provo, Utah

"The Academy of LDS Dentists' annual meeting beautifully blends dentistry with family, faith, and continued service to those whose paths cross ours. We want the world to know that our primary goal is not just to rebuild mouths, but that through example, love, and service, we can help instill hope to rebuild people’s lives. Working together we can all help the world become a better place."

Refer a Friend Program

Earn more conference discounts by sharing the benefits and rewards of Academy membership with your peers!

Here’s how it works: You share the good news of the Academy with another dentist or specialist. He or she joins the Academy as a new dues-paying member, listing you as the referring member, and attends the 2016 annual conference in August. After you attend the conference, your account will be reimbursed $100 for each dentist you have referred who is brand new to the Academy and attended the conference.

We all have positive things in our lives that have created great memories and experiences for us, and we share these things with the people we care about. Why not take a minute and share your experiences of the Academy and conference? Let your friends and colleagues know what the Academy can do for them so they can enjoy the blessings and benefits of Academy membership too. It’s the best reason of all to refer a friend!

Hygienists’ Lunch and Learn with Lindsay Hancock

Lindsay Hancock

Improving Patients’ Health through Nutrition Education

Due to frequent patient contact, health screening capabilities, and position of authority, those in the dental profession are often the most equipped to educate your patients on dietary problems, nutritional deficiencies, and opportunities for dietetic improvement. This presentation will help you understand how closely nutrition, oral hygiene, and overall health are connected, and what you can do to help your patients make smarter nutritional choices. We will discuss how to use your time with patients to discuss nutritional concerns and provide you with simple solutions to help improve your patients’ oral hygiene and overall health.

Education and Background:

Lindsay attended Johnson & Wales University in Denver, Colorado, where she studied culinary arts (AS), baking and pastry arts (AS), and nutrition (BS). Her passion for culinary nutrition led her to work as a product development chef, where she consulted for global food and beverage companies, weight management corporations, sports nutrition companies, and the National School Lunch Program Board for more than five years. Lindsay furthered her culinary and nutrition education by taking continuing education courses in more than five countries. For nearly three years she taught nutrition, meal preparation, and food budgeting courses to low-income families through her volunteer work with Share Our Strength. While pursuing her career in the food and beverage industry, Lindsay returned to her alma mater to teach both culinary and nutrition courses.

“I invite each of you to be dues-paying members of the Academy and join us for our conference on August 12 and 13. Your dues bless the lives of so many of our Heavenly Father’s children around the world and right here at home.

Gordon Christensen will again have the best speakers in the world to provide us with the latest and most exciting continuing education available. We will all be inspired and rejuvenated. Great programs await our spouses and children as well. We can all look forward to another wonderful fireside banquet at the newly remodeled Provo Marriott Hotel & Conference Center.

I am excited to rub shoulders with all of you as we learn together and renew our friendships. Bring your family and friends, and be a part of the 2016 Academy conference!”

—Laurence Palmer, Academy President
Ronald Morris, DDS
Dr. Ronald Morris received his undergraduate degree from Wayne State University in 1977. He attended the University of Detroit School of Dentistry, graduating with honors in 1981. He did a general practice residency at Truman Medical Center in Kansas City, Missouri, and an oral and maxillofacial residency at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit. He has been practicing oral and maxillofacial surgery since 1985 and is a diplomate of the American Board of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery. He lectures and teaches human anatomy at the University of Detroit Mercy School of Dentistry. He has presented nationally and internationally on anatomy, local anesthesia, and oral and maxillofacial surgery.

The Missed Injection: (morning)
A compressed review of inferior alveolar nerve blocks, with detailed description of a new technique using a direct anatomical approach with less pain and increased success.

The Natural Implant: (afternoon)
A compressed 30-year review of transplanted and uprighted teeth. Indications, risks, benefits, and prognosis of various surgical cases will be reviewed in detail.

Damon Adams, DDS
Dr. Adams, a graduate of the University of Michigan School of Dentistry, is an assistant clinical professor at the University of Toledo, College of Medicine (dental residency program). He is the editor-in-chief of Dentistry Today and is listed in Dentistry Today’s Leaders in Continuing Education. Dr. Adams lectures internationally, focusing on updates in dental materials, the latest trends and innovations in dentistry, doctor-technician relationships, and technoclinical perspectives. He also facilitates hands-on preparation workshops designed to optimize the use of all-ceramic systems. In addition to his years in private practice, he has had the opportunity to serve as a doctor-technician liaison for numerous dental laboratories throughout North America since 1996. Dr. Adams is a member of the ADA, AGD, AACD, SCAD, ASDA, NADL, and a fellow in the ICD.

An All-Ceramic Dilemma (morning)
With the recent introduction of incredible new all-ceramic materials, there has never been a better opportunity for clinicians to be placing more minimally invasive restorations. However, is this the current reality? We will take a brief look at a representative sampling of cases examined in North American dental laboratories, and then offer some clinical solutions.

Trends, Innovations, Controversies, and Clinical Tips (afternoon)
From his unique perspectives as editor-in-chief of one of North America’s leading clinical news magazines, and from much experience working with the dental laboratory industry, Dr. Adams will be discussing a variety of trends, controversies, and clinical tips related to the latest lab-fabricated all-ceramic dental materials.

Rella Christensen, RDH, PhD
Rella Christensen, PhD, leads TRAC Research. It is the human studies section of the nonprofit Clinicians Report Foundation, formerly called CRA, which she cofounded and directed for 27 years. She has a BS in dental hygiene (USC), a PhD in physiology with emphasis on microbiology (BYU), and postgraduate training in anaerobic microbiology (Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University). She has written numerous research reports and spoken internationally for many years.

The Age of Zirconia in Dentistry Is NOW! (morning)
Do you know all you would like to know about zirconia for your patients—or do you wonder about questions such as:
1. How do the new translucent zirconias differ from the original BruxZir?
2. How do the different brands of translucent zirconia differ from each other?
3. Why is it best not to fire veneer ceramic over zirconia?
4. When used as a substructure, how does zirconia compare to metals?
From results of large, controlled clinical trials, learn answers to these and other pertinent questions regarding zirconia—the material that now dominates dentistry!

Monolithic Crowns—Where Are We Now? (afternoon)
In 2016 dentists can choose from a wide variety of monolithic crown materials ranging from zirconias (both less and more translucent), to lithium disilicate, several polymer “ceramics,” and interesting combinations of zirconia mixed with lithium silicate. Each material has indications and contraindications clinicians need to know. The differences and similarities will be enumerated, along with the clinical performance of each in large, controlled, clinical trials conducted by TRAC Research.

Lisa Mallonee, BSDH, MPH, RD, LD
Lisa Mallonee is an associate professor and registered dietitian at Texas A&M University’s Baylor College of Dentistry in the Caruth School of Dental Hygiene. She also serves as a dietetic preceptor for Baylor University Medical Center dietetic interns and lectures in the Master of Clinical Nutrition Coordinated Program at University of Texas Southwestern. She received a BS in dental hygiene and a master of public health with a coordinated degree in nutrition from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Lisa is on the editorial review board for the Journal of Dental Hygiene.

What Do Diet and Nutrition Have to Do with Dentistry? (morning)
As dental professionals, we are in a unique position to provide our patients with the highest degree of preventive health care. The dental visit isn’t just about the mouth—it’s about the whole patient! By applying the basic principles of cariology with ongoing research and emerging information on diet and nutrition as it relates to oral and systemic health, we can confidently provide comprehensive care for our patients.

Sugar and Sugar Alternatives: The Bittersweet Truth (afternoon)
Consumption of too much sugar is linked not only to tooth decay, but to heart disease, diabetes, and other systemic conditions. Alternatives help us cut sugar, but do they provide benefit or added risks? This course will provide an overview of sweeteners on the market, current evidence about sugar and sugar substitute intake, and the practical application to dentistry and whole body health.

Brian LeSage, DDS, FAACD
Dr. Brian LeSage graduated magna cum laude from the University of Maryland, Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, in 1983. He has actively integrated academic pursuits with a private practice for the past 24 years in Beverly Hills, California, emphasizing aesthetic and reconstructive dentistry. He is one of 350 accredited cosmetic dentists in the worldwide American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry (AACD).

Practical and Predictable Posterior Composite Restorations: Minimizing Sensitivity and Maximizing Esthetics (morning)
Have you recently updated your direct composite restoration skills? Learn how to prevent postoperative sensitivity on posterior direct restorations and how to assure a solid contact on interproximal restorations. What class of composite materials is appropriate for posterior restorations versus anterior restorations?

Practical and Predictable Anterior Composite Restorations: Seamless and Undetectable in the Esthetic Zone (afternoon)
When placing anterior direct composites, is material or technique more important? Learn various layering techniques and how tints and opaques can aid with mimicking natural tooth structure. Discussion will include additive techniques that rival porcelain in color and polishing.

Chuck Blakeman
Chuck Blakeman is a best-selling business author and world-renowned business advisor. He has built eight businesses in seven industries on four continents and now uses his leadership experience to advise others. His company, Crankeit Group, provides outcome-based mentoring and peer advisory for business leaders in the US, Europe, Africa, and Asia.

Mr. Blakeman is a convention speaker, writer, and nonprofit board member. His first book, Making Money Is Killing Your Business, was name the no. 1 Business Book of the Year by the National Federation of Independent Businesses (NFIB). His newest book, Why Employees Are ALWAYS a Bad Idea, has already been named a Top 10 Business Book of the Year.

Making Money Is Killing Your Practice (morning)
Get off the treadmill, make more money in less time, and get back to the passion that brought you into dentistry in the first place. Use your practice to build your ideal lifestyle, not just an income.

Join us and get these questions answered: What does a successful business look like? How do I get there? Where do I start? How do I turn my passion into a real business that works for ME?

Why Managing Your Practice Costs You Time and Money (afternoon)
Management is a treadmill; leadership is the way off. Practice owners and key staff who act like managers don’t get off the treadmill.

This workshop will be a practical parade of principles and tools:
• Leader’s mindset vs. manager’s mindset, and how the difference will change your practice
• Your specific and unique decision-making profile and how it affects everything you do
• Practical tools to become a leader and grow a practice that requires less management
• How to play the Business Owner’s Game
• How to be more free to do the things you love in your practice

FOUNDER PRESENTATION

Gordon J. Christensen, DDS, MSD, PhD
Gordon J. Christensen is founder and CEO of Practical Clinical Courses (PCC), CEO of Clinicians Report Foundation (CR), and a practicing prosthodontist in Provo, Utah. He has presented over 45,000 hours of continuing education throughout the world and published many articles and books.

Gordon and Dr. Rella Christensen are cofounders of the nonprofit Clinicians Report Foundation (previously CRA), which Rella directed for many years. Since 1976, they have conducted research in all areas of dentistry and published the findings to the profession in the well-known Clinicians Report. FRIDAY EVENING FIRESIDE

An Evening with Elder Bennett

Elder Randall K. Bennett was sustained as a General Authority Seventy of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints on April 2, 2011. He served four years in the Europe East Area Presidency in Moscow, Russia, and the three previous years as president of the Russia Samara Mission. He is currently serving as an assistant executive director in the Priesthood and Family Department and assists in supervising the North America Northeast Area.

Elder Bennett received a doctor of dental surgery from the University of Alberta and a master of science in orthodontics from Loma Linda University in California. He practiced orthodontics in Beverly Hills and Newport Beach, California, before moving his family to Salt Lake City, where he worked until being called as a mission president.

Elder Bennett served as a full-time missionary in the France Paris Mission and France Toulouse Mission. He has served in various ward and stake callings and as a branch president at the Missionary Training Center in Provo, Utah.

Elder and Sister Bennett are the parents of four children and 19 grandchildren. They currently reside in Salt Lake City, Utah.
The 2016 Academy of LDS Dentists Spouse Program is for husbands and wives of dental professionals who attend our conference. This year’s theme is “Here Am I; Send Me.” The morning program will be held at the same location as the clinicians’ program, in the BYU Conference Center (CONF); afternoon presentations will be held in the Varsity Theatre of the BYU Wilkinson Center (WSC).
